Rome, June 21.

THIS Morning an Express arriv'd from the Cardinal Legate of Ferrara, with Advice that the French Troops which were in that Province are retir'd out of it into the Modeneze; and that the Imperialists staid behind but had promis'd to march out very speedily: Which News was very acceptable to his Holiness. This Week the Congregation appointed to take care of the Immunities of the Church, met, and the Pope himself was present, to consider of the Differences that have been a long time between this Court and those of Savoy and Naples. The Pope's Gallies, which put to Sea from Civita Vecchia three or four days ago, are to joyn those of Malta, to cruise together on the Corsairs of Tripoli who infest our Coasts. Several Shogs of an Earthquake have been felt in divers places of the Ecclesiastical State; and were so violent in some Parts, that the Inhabitants quitted the Towns for fear their Houses should fall on their Heads, and have set up Tents to live in in the open Fields. The Corn Warehouses belonging to the Apostolical Chamber being too little, the Pope has resolv'd to build a large Granary or Magazine capable of holding 40000 Sacks of Corn. This Building will be very Magnificent; The Foundations are begun to be laid, and leaden Medals with the Pope's Effigies and an Inscription on them suited to the Occasion, are dispos'd among the lowest Stones; That late Posterity may know who was the Founder.

Yarmouth, July 7. The Light Fleet mention'd in our last who waited for Convoy, are now increas'd to near 300 Sail, who stay for a fair Wind with their Convoy the Chester and Nightingal. Here is also the Bristol and a Dutch Man of War appointed Convoy for our Corn Fleet to Rotterdam.

Harwich, July 8. The Pacquet-Boat is not arriv'd with the Mail from Holland the Wind being still contrary. The Grayhound Man of War with 40 Sail of Light Ships are still here.

London, July 10. This day came in a Mail from Lisbon, dated July 2. N. S. which brings the following Advices.

Lisbon, July 2. We are under some Concern here for Major General Stuart's Regiment, commanded by Lieutenant Collonel Hufsey in Castel David, which Town, 'tis said, has surrendred to the Enemy on Discretion, but the Collonel with the English, are retir'd to the Castle, and resolutely stand upon honourable Terms; but our Army divided into three separate Bodies, finding great Difficulties for any two of them to joyn, we fear will not be able to succour them. Yesterday arriv'd here the Panther and Swallow from Sir George Rook's Squadron, who parted from him at the Streights Mouth being order'd hither; the next day the Panther and Swallow made a Fleet of Ships at a great distance, which they took to be Sir Cloudfly Shovel, who no doubt joyn'd Sir George Rooke immediately after, and 'tis thought they will jointly return back again up the Streights. P. S. Here is an Express arriv'd from Algarves, with an Account that Sir George Rooke and Sir Cloudfly Shovel are joyn'd and come together into Lagos Bay. Sir George Rooke has sent Orders hither for the Victuallers to come to him; and 'tis said designs to return into the Streights to look after the Enemy.

Estremoz, June 28. Yesterday Morning a Party of Portugueze Horse of about 50 Men met a Party of French and Spaniards, of 70 Men, not far from hence, with whom they engag'd about an Hour: The Portugueze lost their Captain, one Aleixo Carrasco, a good old Soldier, who was brought into the Camp and will be inter'd this Night. Several of the Portuguze were wounded, and 5 or 6 of the Spaniards brought hither Prisoners. Lieutenant Collonel Hufsey who commands the Battallion of English in Castel David, wrote a Letter the 24th to Collonel Duncasson, which Letter was brought by a Soldier that came privately out of the place; in which he acquainted him that the Enemy had play'd upon the Place from 4 a Clock that Morning till 10, from 1 Battery of Mortars and 4 of Cannon; but that the Artillery of the Place had disabled the Enemy's Battery of Mortars, and 2 of their Batteries of Cannon; that the Town was weak, but that he was determin'd, when he could defend it no longer, to retire into the Castle. P. S. To Day the Duke of Schomberg receiv'd a Letter from Lieutenant Collonel Hufsey,

Hussey, advising him that the Portuguese had surrendred the Town of Castell David; but that he had retir'd with the English into the Castle, which he was resolv'd to defend as long as possible, and make as honourable Terms as he could for himself and Garrison, before he would yield.
